Discourse and Genre Hodder Education

This collection of chapters written by some of the most important persuasion scholars of our time represents the scope, depth, and richness of the field of persuasion. With contributions from authors in a wide variety of disciplines, "Perspectives On Persuasion, Social Influence, and Compliance Gaining" provides students with a panoramic view of the field, broadening their perspective and understanding of the influence and impact of persuasion in our lives. Contributing authors include: Richard Petty, John Cacioppo, James Dillard, Daniel O'Keefe, Michael Cody, Robert Cialdini, Michael Burgoon, Linda Carli, David Buller, Judee Burgoon, and others. Features: Students gain insights directly from those who produced the theories and research, as these top-notch scholars reflect on the development of the theory or research, where it is going, and where it has been. The contributors come from multiple disciplines, including communication, psychology, and business, offering students multiple perspectives on the content. Introductions to each section provide students with the rationale for student, an appreciation of ethics, an orientation to each chapter, and an understanding of each chapter's contribution to the field. Early chapters on conceptualizations of persuasion, the history of the field, and theoretical developments give students the background necessary for understanding what persuasion is and how it functions. Chapters on both theories of persuasion and the practice of persuasion in multiple contexts help students see the connection between theory and practice. Concrete examples of theories and concepts bring the text to life and help students more easily understand the material. Chapter on deception enables students to see how one of the most recently researched areas fits into the field of persuasion. "

Cosmic Bloomsbury Publishing

A hilarious companion to I Wanna Iguana. Ever since their baby sister came along, Alex has been forced to share a room with his little brother, Ethan, and it's a nightmare. Ethan always breaks stuff, snores like a walrus, and sticks crayons up his nose. No hardworking, well-behaved, practically grown-up boy like Alex should have to put up with that! Writing letters to his mom convinced her to let him get his pet iguana, so Alex puts pencil to paper again, this time determined to get his own room. Though all of his powers of persuasion can't get his dad to expand the house, he does come through with a fun alternative to give Alex some space of his own.

Part of the Party Simon and Schuster

Over the last two decades the development of the 'third sector' has been underpinned by principles of independence and autonomy, regulation and accountability and patronage through partnership. The essays in this collection expose the resulting tensions in the relationship between voluntary sector and the state. As the government role has switched from that of provider to enabler and regulator, many charities and voluntary organisations have been forced by financial pressures to offer services and engage in trading activities, performing a wide range of sometimes -conflicting functions which threaten their relationships with service-users and funds. The contributions to this volume address the pressing legal questions about governance, openness, accountability and regulation raised by the shifting boundary between state and voluntary sector responsibilities. Specific areas discussed include the legal structure and governance of voluntary bodies, accountability to government and to service-users, regulation and privatisation, partnership with central and local government, taxation of trading activities, volunteer behaviour and regulation, political independence and control, and conflicts of interest.

The Best Dress Ever Bloomsbury Publishing

In this stimulating work of political philosophy, acclaimed philosopher G. A. Cohen sets out to rescue the egalitarian thesis that in a society in which distributive justice prevails, people's material prospects are roughly equal. Arguing against the Rawlsian version of a just society, Cohen demonstrates that distributive justice does not tolerate deep inequality. In the course of providing a deep and sophisticated critique of Rawls's theory of justice, Cohen demonstrates that questions of distributive justice arise not only for the state but also for people in their daily lives. The right rules for the macro scale of public institutions and policies also apply, with suitable adjustments, to the micro level of individual decision-making. Cohen also charges Rawls's constructivism with systematically conflating the concept of justice with other concepts. Within the Rawlsian architectonic, justice is not distinguished either from other values or from optimal rules of social regulation. The elimination of those connotations brings justice closer to equality.
