Un coeur de femme Alpha Edition

Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts (1) We have not used OCR(Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. (2) In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images, so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.

As a genre situated at the crossroad of rhetoric and fiction declamatio offers the freedom to experiment with new forms of discourse. Placing the literariness of declamatio into the spotlight, this volume showcases declamation as a realm of genuine literary creation with its own theoretical underpinning, literary technique and generic conventions. Focusing on the oeuvre of Calpurnius Flaccus this volume demonstrates that these texts constitute a genre on their own, the rhetorical and literary framework of which remains not yet fully mapped. Contributions from an international group of leading scholars from the field of Roman Literature and Rhetoric will explore the question of how Roman Declamation functions as a literary genre. This volume investigates the literary technique and the generic conventions of declamatio in its social, pedagogical and ethical context to determine "the poetics" of Roman Declamation. This volume is of interest to students and scholars of Rhetoric and Roman Literature. If you are interested in Roman Declamation, we also recommend the volume on the Declamations Ascribed to Quintilian by the same editors to you.

Dans un petit village niché au cœur des Appalaches, Zélia, issue d'une famille chaleureuse et aimante, rêve d'une vie remplie d'amour et de tendresse, au matin de son mariage. Très travaillante, le dur labeur sur la ferme ne lui fait pas peur. Habitante avec sa belle-mère, veuve, aigrie par la vie, elle se sent bien loin de sa famille. Sa douceur légendaire viendra-t-elle adoucir le caractère bouillant de son Ferdinand ? Elle traversera plusieurs épreuves, lui donnera six enfants et ne cessera jamais d'aimer son mari. Mais à quel prix ? À PROPOS DE L'AUTRICE Cadette de sa famille, l'autrice a toujours fait preuve d'intérêt, de curiosité et d'admiration pour la vie de ses ancêtres. Ses sœurs déjà parties de la maison, elle se retrouve souvent seule avec les parents et recueille ainsi leurs confidences et leurs récits qui sont très précis. Depuis l'âge de 8 ans, l'idée de coucher cette histoire des années 20 et 30 sur le papier, est devenue de plus en plus pressante. Véritable bourreau de travail, elle écrit d'abord un programme d'études professionnelles, permettant ainsi à plusieurs centaines de femmes de retourner sur le marché du travail. Toute sa carrière sera vouée à l'administration de cliniques dentaires, où son écoute et son implication font la différence. Préretraitée, elle entreprend deux années de recherches et d'écriture afin de nous partager aujourd'hui, ce premier tome de la vie particulière de Zélia et sa famille.

Les maladies cardiovasculaires sont la première cause de mortalité chez les femmes en France ! Les infarctus chez les femmes de moins de 50 ans ont triplé ces quinze dernières années. Cette progression est notamment liée à l'évolution de leur mode de vie et à l'adoption de mauvaises habitudes (stress, alimentation, tabac, sédentarité, etc.). Dirigé par un comité scientifique d'experts (cardiologues, chirurgien cardiaque, kinésithérapeute, médecin, nutritionniste, gynécologue, sophrologue), cet ouvrage vous explique simplement comment prendre soin de votre coeur et de vos artères. Des conseils de prévention et des exercices illustrés pour garder la forme. Les facteurs de risque et les examens médicaux à ne pas négliger. Les 3 périodes de la vie hormonale à surveiller : contraception, grossesse et ménopause. Les signes cliniques qu'il faut savoir repérer...

Among the more interesting incunabula preserved in the Salle de la Réserve of the Bibliothèque National in Paris are the apparently unique copies of two editions, very similar in content, of a work entitled Les Adevineaux amoureux. In much more comprehensive form Les Adevineaux amoureux is preserved in a manuscript belonging to the Musée Conde at Chantilly. All three texts, in medieval French, appear to date from the 1470s. The present work, Amorous Games, is a critical edition of Les Adevineaux amoureux. Amorous Games is a miscellany whose principal unifying force is the compiler's aim to provide a manual of conversation and entertainment for polite society. Included are series of questions and answers belonging to the well-established medieval tradition of the "Demandes amoureuses"; a very large number of riddles, mainly folk riddles; and "venditions en amours," little poems that apparently came into being as part of a social game. Students of medieval French literature, particularly those with a penchant for some of the minor genres, will find new material in the Amorous Games. Folklorists will discover what is probably the largest collection of riddles bequeathed to us by medieval France and also much that is of value to specialists in the proverb and folk tale. For this critical edition of Les Adevineaux amoureux Professor Hassell has selected the Chantilly manuscript, because it is the most complete and also because it had not yet been published. The Appendix contains the text of the more complete of the two incunabula and the significant variants appearing in the other fifteenth-century printed edition. The manuscript text has been collated with that of the incunabula, and copious notes and an index to the riddles have been supplied. In his introduction Professor Hassell discusses in detail the major classes and subclasses of the riddle, drawing on the work of Petsch, Taylor, Abrahams, and other scholars of the genre.

When, why and how can religion and culture be both sources, and places of expression for fundamentalisms, particularly in relation to politics? Those are the central questions asked throughout this book alongside a discussion on the result when religion, strengthened by culture, is used as a political tool to access moral and social power. Cultural and religious messages often form the basis of decisions, laws and programs made in politics, and have a direct effect on society in general, and on women and gender relations in particular. The various forms taken by fundamentalisms in some African countries and the contexts under which they have emerged, the ways in which they (re)shape identities and relationships between men and women are also analysed in this book. These fundamentalisms are frequently sources of concern in social debates, in feminist and feminine organizations as well as in academia and politics. The manipulation of cultures and religions are becoming progressively political, and consequently can cause social discrimination, or even physical, moral, and symbolic violence.
