The Indian state of Kerala has invoked much attention within development and gender debates, specifically in relation to its female capital- an outcome of interrelated historical, cultural and social practices. On the one hand, Kerala has been romanticised, with its citizenry, particularly women, being free of social divisions and uplifted through educational well-being. On the other hand, its realism is stark, particularly in the light of recent social changes. Using a Bourdieusian frame of analysis, Development and Gender Capital in India explores the forces of globalisation and how they are embedded within power structures. Through narratives of women's lived experiences in the private and public domains, it highlights the 'anomie of gender' through complexities and contradictions vis-à-vis processes of modernity, development and globalisation. By demonstrating the limits placed upon gender capital by structures of patriarchy and domination, it argues that discussions about the empowered Malayalee women should move from a mere 'politics of rhetoric and representation' to a more embedded 'politics of transformation', meaningfully taking into account women's changing roles and identities. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of Development Studies, Gender Studies, Anthropology and Sociology.

This book can be downloaded as a PDF file from here. This is a sort of continuation of my book: March of the evil empires: English versus the feudal languages. The theme discussed here is an expansion of the ideas cursorily mentioned in the concluding part of that book. In that book, the aim was to discuss the general qualities of feudal languages as against that of English. However in the present book, what has been dealt with is about the inner codes of language and their links and relationship with the codes of reality. The contention is that reality is a creation of some superior software, and that language codes do have connection with it. The book is an expansion of this idea. I do believe that this book merits consideration. If what is contended here does have substance, there is every chance that the whole outlook modern science has with regard to reality and human existence may be altered. Apart from all that, this book might give a lot of enlightenment about the various triggers that do affect human mind and emotions. Persons who are into the study of human mind and its varied features might gain a lot from this book. Beyond all that, there is a huge discussion on the effect of language codes on human genetic features. From this perspective, this book might be seen to deal with such subjects as ethnographic studies, anthropology &c. from an entirely new angle of pondering and vision. In the ultimate count, this book is part of the pioneering work done by this author in the study of the Software codes of reality! But then this is also a book deals with many hidden triggers inside Human mind and emotions, which are linked to non-tangible verbal and non-verbal signals. The theme of this book is either partially or fully connected to the following books of mine. 1. March of the Evil Empires: English versus the feudal languages

(Last part) 2. Software codes of Reality, Life and Languages! 3. The SHROUDED SATANISM in FEUDAL LANGUAGES! 4. The machinery of Homoeopathy 5. Software codes of mantra, tantra, witchcraft, black magic, evil eye, evil tongue &c
